A bombshell study released by Stanford University confirms evidence of election fraud during the 2016 Democratic Party primaries.

According to a paper released this week entitled, "Are we witnessing a dishonest election?," a state comparison based on the voting procedures used during the election reveals endemic election fraud within the system.

Are the results we are witnessing in the 2016 primary elections trustworthy? While Donald Trump enjoyed a clear and early edge over his Republican rivals, the Democratic contest between former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton and Senator Bernard Sanders has been far more competitive.

At present, Secretary Clinton enjoys an apparent advantage over Sanders. Is this claimed advantage legitimate?

We contend that it is not, and suggest an explanation for the advantage: States that are at risk for election fraud in 2016 systematically and overwhelmingly favor Secretary Clinton. We provide converging evidence for this claim.

First, we show that it is possible to detect irregularities in the 2016 Democratic Primaries by comparing the states that have hard paper evidence of all the placed votes to states that do not have this hard paper evidence. Second, we compare the final results in 2016 to the discrepant exit polls.

Furthermore, we show that no such irregularities occurred in the 2008 competitive election cycle involving Secretary Clinton against President Obama.

POWER COMPANIES Banned This Video

As such, we find that in states wherein voting fraud has the highest potential to occur, systematic efforts may have taken place to provide Secretary Clinton with an exaggerated margin of support.

Yes, the entire world is watching this 3-ring circus of an election.

A viable candidate who is constantly cheated by rigged voting machines and corrupt party officials. attempting to change to a better political delegate system

A woman screaming equal rights for women, but accepts contributions from countries that don't even allow the girls to learn to read.! And an illegal server in her basement.

A hot-headed billionaire who calls it as he sees it. With no tact and no grace.

canucanoe2 - It is possible for a voter to have zero respect for Donald Trump and to dislike Hillary Clinton at the same time. If this person thinks that Bernie Sanders is the only one running who would make a fair and decent President, why would you possibly be upset with their choice.

And is it really irrational to be afraid? Fear of heights stops us from jumping off cliffs. Fear of insects and snakes prevents us from getting poisoned. Fear is a survival mechanism, you just have to manage it well. If you reject it for some sappy purposes, you'll find yourself dead, literally or figuratively.

The knowledge that I'd die or get hurt is plenty to keep me from jumping off cliffs, I'm not an idiot. Fear is irrational because either you can do something about the situation to fix it and should, or can't so worrying is useless and you're better off starting to think now about how to recover.

If I remember correctly the GOP as a party has supported segregation, white's only hotels, restaurants, water fountains, back of the bus policy, dislike people of color, want guns on every person, always support wars, vote to support corporations over citizens, all concepts of love. NOT!

11 ^ | v • Reply • Share ›

Kathy Ruth → Concerned Citizen • 5 months ago

To be ABSOLUTEY correct you should say the CONSERVATIVES have "supported segregation, white's only hotels, restaurants, water fountains, back of the bus policy, dislike people of color, want guns on every person, always support wars, vote to support corporations over citizens, all concepts of love."

During the first half or so of the 20th century the parties switched ideologies--the Democratic Party became the liberal party and the Republican Party became the CONSERVATIVE one, starting with the aftermath of the Civil war and culminating with the passage of the Civil Rights Act.

14 ^ | v • Reply • Share ›

Marck1022 → Kathy Ruth • 5 months ago

You inserted "republican" and "democrat" into that statement. Conservatives, regardless of party, were responsible for the worst oppression plaguing the nation in most periods of American history.

6 ^ | v • Reply • Share ›

freedom74 → Marck1022 • 5 months ago

Interesting statement. I would draw from your stance that anything you deem negative was somehow done by someone "conservative" and anything positive was done by someone "liberal"? You sound very much like someone who has a form of paranoid delusions.

There was no switch. Under Hoover, Republicans were conservative small government types that voted for civil rights. Under Roosevelt, Democrats were racist big government types still. There was a big migration of people from North to South and to the West that changed regional demographics greatly after the 1950s. Hell, the Democrat That brought a lot of Northern Republicans to the South for manufacturing jobs. The South didn't go Republican until the 1990s when all the old racist Democrats started to die off. It was Republicans that brought guns from the North to arm Southern Blacks against the Klan.

EIBRAN → Kathy Ruth • 5 months ago

Hi Kathy Ruth - that's not quite right. The Democratic Party was, and still is but a little less so, the more 'left' party focusing on worker's interests. The Republican Party was, and still is at the "establishment" level, the more 'right' party focusing on corporate interests. The difference is that "workers" then, as embraced by the Democrats and the establishment as a whole, were (pretty exclusively) white men. And, the KKK and similar organizations tended to be made up of lower or middle income white men - Democrats. During the '60s, the Democratic Party began expanding its conception of workers to include women and minorities (though they simultaneously shifted their focus away from lower income workers onto "the middle class"). Consequently the Republican Party, particularly through the campaigns of Nixon and Reagan, succeeded in attracting racist whites away from the Democratic Party, leaving us with the strange spectacle of a bunch of angry poor white guys voting against their interests because they'd rather do that than convene with minorities and women.

2 ^ | v • Reply • Share ›

Julian Assange → EIBRAN • 5 months ago

Exactly. So crazy.

1 ^ | v • Reply • Share ›

freedom74 → Kathy Ruth • 5 months ago

Prove it. I have followed politics and history ever since I could read and I can intelligently talk about history for about the last 3000 years and I have seen absolutely no proof of this particular talking point. To be honest I can't stand the Republican party from the 1980s to now, but it's not because I believe in this silly "switched platforms" garbage.

^ | v • Reply • Share ›

AnoeIg → Concerned Citizen • 5 months ago

Ku Klux Klan was the extension of the Democratic party - ask Sen. Byrd or since he is dead, ask his best friend Hillary Clinton who raved about him. You do not remember correctly. Your handle is a concerned citizen but I would highly recommend you change it to "clueless citizen".

10 ^ | v • Reply • Share ›

Concerned Citizen → Anoelg • 5 months ago

First, I don't support Clinton. You're right about byrd and other southern racists who were democrats. But you can't believe there are/were more democratic racists during that time or today. Be real. But look how the republican party has worked for corporate american, look at all the laws passed to hurt labor, look at the laws that are being passed to protect corporate, look at what a shitty job the GOP has done for our vets. They're quick to send them to war but somehow there's never enough money to support them when they return, guess which party has been trying to keep fracking going and creating roadblocks in from of alternative energy, check out what the GOP has for a presidential candidate (before you go there Clinton isn't any better). The republican party has been on the wrong side of every important issue in the last 50 years. I will say the GOP hasn't sold their soul only to corporate america, they shared it with the religious right. Imaging these talking head religion types now supporting Trump. Now there's a christian value.

NAFTA. Created by Republicans and signed by Democratic President Slick Willy.

NAFTA created wealth for manufactured industry when it allowed corporations to pull the red, white and blue rug right out from under the feet of the American worker and relocate abroad for lower paid wages.

The cats grew fat while the workers scrambled for employment elsewhere only to lose again when industry after industry followed suit and took our economic survival and gave it to Mexico, Guatemala, Ecuador, and others.

Economic loss within a household creates depression

Economic loss within a household creates depression, frustration and desperation. Wage earners feel useless and undermined by their company as well as their Nations' leaders that allowed and enact such a bill as NAFTA to create such economic distress.

2 ^ | v • Reply • Share ›

ncfnorcalrep8 → Della Robinson-Melton • 5 months ago

Thank you Della. But NAFTA was not only signed by Bill Clinton but supported and pushed for by both Bill and Hillary Clinton. Secretary Clinton has supported most all of the free trade agreements over the years including the TPP until she "changed her mind" during the primary. Ted Kennedy also voted for NAFTA if I am not mistaken. No, contrary to a lot of posters here, the Democrats have been selling out "labor" and the American workers to corporate "globalization" for over 20+ years now.

BTW, the Dixiecrat Party is no more. It was replaced by Republicans who now run the South, which is why African Americans are overwhelmingly Democratic.

Awe, did you forget about your favorite Amendment? The First Amendment to the constitution? I know as a good Liberal you would like to disregard the Second one but I am shocked that you would want to limit someone's freedom of speech.... that can't be.... Would you like me to point out what hate looks like? I can give you some really recent examples.... Or is that just a favorite blanket term you like to throw around when someone doesn't agree with you? The Democratic party is a fraud in itself. It is a party for people who suffer from incurable mental disorder ran by people who are suffering from decent intellect but serious lack of character. Why would anyone think that putting the word "democratic" in front of socialism actually makes socialism a good thing? Even though it cost millions of lives throughout history. Why would anyone be so arrogant to assume that it was "implemented wrong" and they could do it "better" not that it had a serious flaw in its core? Why would anyone go down a self destructing road? That proves the mental illness. Would putting the word "compassionate" in front of slavery make slavery OK?

The democratic party totally flip flopped into what it is today. The south was entirely democrat (I had a great grandmother who said she would rather die than vote republican and look how the situation has changed today). Connecting the KKK to the present day Democratic party is just pulling at straws that aren't even there.

And I am sure it seems authoritarian for Trump to want people to adhere to laws! What a concept. We haven't had it in awhile. Even Obama and his concept. we haven't had it in awhile. Even Obama and his government feels it is OK to defy laws and judge's orders. What would you expect from the rest of the Liberal population then. Obama leading by example. I know more about life in socialism and what communism is from actual life than you will ever read from your pamphlets. I also know about capitalist society (and how the US government is destroying it) and how one starts at nothing and actually gets somewhere without the help of the government. Socialism DOES require authoritarian government, you are absolutely right about that (so please tell that to the poster mona19595) but it isn't ADVERTISED at the beginning. They don't say - "hey, people, lets make our country socialist! You starve, have nothing, we the elites will keep everything and oppress you. Why don't you put us in power!" ???? They Unregulated capitalism has equally devastating consequences on wealth equality. Why do you think we have anti trust laws and highly regulate our businesses especially with all the lobbying done for corporate America? It didn't start out that way. This regulation came about because there was a clear abuse of power and gaming the system going on by monopolistic enterprises at the vast majority of society's expense. No one is proposing moving to a pure socialist system. We will always be a capitalist free market country. All Bernie is proposing is more regulation where the elite are taking advantage (perpetuated by unregulated capitalism). That's great that you've lived in a socialist system and have first hand experience with corrupt leaders. Some political systems are much too fragile for any kind of fair/unbiased government regulation (looking at you, Latin America). Do you have any kind of professional/academic background in social economic systems? You're wrong. Socialist economies do not require authoritarianism (look at Europe). Communism does, but they are not equal. Bernie is not
