

---

2022 World Economic Conference

---

DISCLAIMER

Thank you for attending the 2022 World Economic Conference! These events provide us the opportunity to directly share our latest perspective on global events and markets, but also allows for great networking for many of the attendees attending in-person. With the success of the livestream, we're attracting new attendees and creating the opportunity for more people to participate than ever before!

For the benefit of all attendees, we have a few important notifications:

We've been made aware that there are some individuals or groups who promote themselves on the internet, and in some cases have shown up at our events, looking to solicit business by claiming to be experts in our models, methodologies and/or products and services (in example, the Socrates membership).

- First, please inform us if anyone approaches you soliciting business making claims about their association with, or proven expertise in our systems.
- Second, please use your best judgement when considering any financial advisor, broker, money manager or otherwise whom you might give money or personal information to - whether you meet them here, or anywhere else. It is best to always check backgrounds, credentials, and references before deciding to work with any person or firm.

For the benefit of all attendees, you should be aware that neither Martin Armstrong, nor AE Global Solutions, Inc. (parent company to Armstrong Economics, and the Socrates online platform, collectively referred to herein as "AE Global") in any way promotes or endorses any third-party financial advisor, broker, money manager, investment banker, or otherwise at this time.

AE Global does not offer any type of formal certification, authorization or official approval to any individual, group, company or institution to use any of our opinions, models, methodologies, any information we present at this or any event, or any information made available on ArmstrongEconomics.com, Ask-Socrates.com, SocratesBusiness.com or in any of our websites or published reports, books or videos (collectively, the "AE Global Services") for the purpose of managing anyone's money, investments or trades.

Finally, all attendees understand and agree that the information provided is exclusively for educational and informational purposes and is not individual financial, investment or trading advice. AE Global is not a financial services firm – we do not manage money for others, we do not provide specific guided investment advice tailored to any individual, we do not provide brokerage services, and we do not provide banking services. All information and materials are provided "As-is" without warranty and is for the general educational purpose of the general public.

The personal opinions, information, and materials provided at this event, as in all of the AE Global Services, is made available "as is" without warranty. All stocks, indexes, futures, Forex or any other financial instrument prices referenced are provided by third-party service providers, and as such, there may be some errors, and this is not the responsibility of AE Global and thus are not appropriate for investment or trading purposes. Therefore, AE Global will not accept any liability for loss or damage as a result of reliance on the personal opinions, information and/or materials obtained or accessed as a result from attending this event attending this event, or from any of the AE Global Services, including but not limited to any data, quotes, charts, trends, projections, estimations, forecasts, arrays, reversals, global market watch, support or resistance levels, buy/sell signals, or other similar references or examples. AE Global encourages all event attendees, and users of AE Global Services to do extensive research, utilize multiple products, services, and sources of information, and to consult accredited financial services professionals to better understand the risks and costs associated with financial investments, and to carefully consider your particular investment objectives, level of experience, and risk appetite before any investment.